A Successful Approach to Quality & Performance Improvement in Primary Care

Quality and performance improvement in primary care can be a challenging endeavor. Without a plan, buy-in from stakeholders, accountability, and the right tools and tactics, efforts to improve care delivery and outcomes will likely have suboptimal results at best. This presentation will discuss an approach that proved measurably successful, resulting in local, state, and national recognition. By diving in from planning down to tools and tactics, participants will leave with ideas to incorporate into their own approach to quality and performance improvement.

Learning Objectives:

- Participants will be able to describe the importance of a quality plan.
- Participants will be able to create a process measure that drives an outcome measure.
- Participants will be able to describe quality stakeholders and the importance of buy-in for setting the quality agenda.
- Participants will be able to identify a framework and strategies for maintaining accountability.
- Participants will be able to recognize tools and tactics for supporting quality improvement in primary care.
